Four receive Houghton College's prestigious Barnabas Servant Leadership Award

HOUGHTON—Four Houghton College seniors are the recipients of the 2008 Barnabas Servant Leadership Award. The recipients are Kaylan Reynolds, Briana Shaffer, Jesse Fink and Ryan Musser. Each received an award of $1,000 in scholarship money.

One of the more prestigious honors that Houghton College presents, the Barnabas Award is given to selected students who exude sound leadership qualities and are committed to serving others. The award is named in remembrance of the “son of encouragement” and biblical servant, Barnabas.

Of the $1,000 awarded, each student is required to give at least $250 to a charitable organization of their choice. The organizations receiving contributions from this year's awards include the Romania Fund, Hope Refugee Services, Blood Water Mission, Greatest Impact, the Emily Kriekler Fund and Hope Micro.

“Knowing that others around me notice my efforts to serve and my involvement with campus activities and ministries has furthered my desire to replicate the Barnabas persona,” said Reynolds.
